- 01:03:38 Jane Carmody: Adam, I just saw the good news about your acceptance as a HAPF program fellow ! congrats. May I tell the attendees with a link to HAPF ? we are always looking for applicants now for the next year!
- 01:04:12 Don Melady: Certainly a more sophisticated set of metrics would be more patient-oriented than just institution-oriented metrics like LOS or “bounce backs”
- 01:04:47 Kevin Biese: @Jane, I say yes announce!! Adam will love it
- 01:05:45 Adam Perry: Thank You, Jane. I am grateful for the opportunity. Please feel free to share.
- 01:08:31 Safia Rubaii: Very difficult to implement for rural (which are already severely low resourced) IHS ED’s, especially during the nights, evenings, and weekends-when no public/home health aervice is available.
- 01:11:18 Kevin Biese: @Safia, great point re rural EDs, A lot of the VBC work in rural EDs is hwo to support the local hospital to take care of the patient when appropriate as opposed to sending the patient further from home to a bigger hospital
- 01:12:47 Tess Hogan Second: how does VBC change physician care? Should it?
- 01:14:07 Renee Oinonen: At both of my former organizations (a health system, and VNA) we had an educational program set up for our patients that was called "call us first" before heading to the ER
- 01:15:17 Don Melady: @Renee -- and when they "called you first”, what happened? I.e., what did your org offer them that made a difference?
- 01:17:00 David Larson (personal): What is the role of Geriatric Observation Units in this model?
- 01:17:08 Renee Oinonen: we had a standard process for our primary care nurses to utilize that would help direct them on the appropriate site for care- urgent care, their pcp, or the ED
- 01:17:24 Don Melady: From Dave Larson: What is the role of Geriatric Observation Units in this model?
- 01:17:39 Tess Hogan Second: is it the responsibility of hospitals to give ED docs access to alternative discharge settings
- 01:17:48 Ye Fan Glavin: What information system is required to support effective realtime decision making and care transition?
- 01:17:52 Renee Oinonen: As a VNA we would put a sign on each patients fridge with when to call us first, and emergencies that they should call 911 for. It was heavy on educating our patients

- 01:18:16 Jane Carmody: Dr. Adam Perry, JAHF congratulates you on being admitted to the new Health & Aging Policy Fellow class. Truly a learning and rewarding experience and you will benefit from the class as they will benefit from you. You will be part of a life-long network of leaders.

01:25:27 Amy Stuck: @Tess, hospitals are often conflicted when it comes to avoiding admissions and providing alternatives to inpatient care. They may want this for their value-based contracts but not for all patients- since that's how they get paid. We work with a local PACE program (program for all inclusive care of the elderly) who are not connected to the hospital. They DO provide the safe alternative to admission.
